Little League Grand Reunion Bows Sunday

Clark Chatterton, athletic director at Cohasset High School, is organizing a grand reunion of all the men who played on the original Little League teams which started 27 years ago in 1952.

Chatterton's idea was that the men who he could round up would play a game against the present all-star team on Sunday July 8 at 1 p.m. at the Little League Field. After the game a reception at the home of David Bernstein, a present Little League manager, is planned for a fun day of refreshments and remembrances.

Chatterton is amazed at the response he had received to the reunion. So far, 75 to 100 men who played ball during the 1950's have responded and intend to participate in the game — and a good number of these men still live in or are affiliated with the town of Cohasset. Chatterton said that the game itself will be a mock performance, allowing all the guys to get in an inning or two.

A hat will be passed to raise money for the Jimmy Fund. Any players from those early days who have not yet been contacted can call Clark Chatterton at 383-0560.
